Business Men of County Enthuse Over Farm Stock

"Rock county first!" Real appreciation of the agricultural merits of Rock county is expressed following the 50 mile express tour, participated in by 250 persons Thursday, representing both the city and country. The tour marked the most significant step taken thus far in co-ordinating the efforts of both the city and country in a county-wide development program of "keeping Rock county first."

The outstanding feature was the splendid response made by the business men, there being more than 50 from Janesville and many others from the other cities and villages. Every Janesville bank was represented.

Liberal Education. Going to the farms for the demonstration, the city men had a liberal education in the quality livestock for which the county has gained national reputation. They were convinced of the importance of a more prosperous agriculture and the necessity of cooperative work for improved livestock.

Good having weather. Rock county farmers, for the day, were out in the harvesting of grain because of continued rains. The farmers on the trip showed keen interest in the demonstrations, and were noted for their stock and auto.

Getting away from Janesville promptly on time, the first stop was made at the farm of Clarence Croft. Here a prize turkey, owned by J. A. Croft, was shown first to be discussed by T. P. Shreve, field man for Durac-Jersey swine. The men and prize were of the "fish-ion-Croft" herd.

Stock from the Harvey Little farm, near Shorthorns, was next shown. The sites, cows and heifers were brought out by J. L. Torrey, secretary of the American Short-

A. tennis club at the band concert in the Fourth ward park, Thursday night. The girls took in more than $37 and could have sold more, had they had more ice-cream and pop. Those who aided in the sale were Misses Ruth O'Hara, Elsie Ward, Gladys Tucker, Ethel Heller, Alice Thayer, Lillian Connell, president of the club, Mildred Look, Esther L. Francis, Piffled, Bessie Mann, Bessie Allen, Hazel Lowrie, Catherine Barrett, Wilhelmina Botsford and Marie Crow and Mrs. Harriet Brandt.

"The Tattooed Arm," a Mystery of Mysteries Story, Begins in the Gazette, Monday, July 17

BELIEVE STRIKE WILL END SOON

Washington Officials Optimistic; Congress Shows Little Concern.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright, 1922, by The Janesville Gazette.

Washington.—An unwavering optimism that the railroad strike will be settled at or least a truce arranged before the end of the week seems to pervade the executive branch of the government, whilst congress, with a meagre attendance reveals little concern one way or the other.

President Harding is now directly a party to the many negotiations which are going on informally among railroad men, but he is kept constantly informed. While there is a difference of opinion among labor leaders as to the wisdom of that part of the president's proclamation which endeavors to give the United States railway industry the prestige and authority of law by referring to it as "the agency of the government," there is no dispute as to the power of the chief executive to prevent interruption to interstate commerce, whether mails or private property of any kind are carried.

Board Stands Strengthened
The position of the railway labor board has on the other hand been immeasurably strengthened by the statement of the railroad executives to the effect that they cannot enter into any negotiations with their board until the decision of the railroad labor board is final. This is an interesting and hopeful development as viewed here for it means a long step toward industrial peace. Hereafter the labor board's decisions are regarded here as a precedent which will make it difficult for the railroads later on to defy the board or matters which appear to favor the employees.

President Upholds Board
From the very beginning the president has kept to one line of attack, namely the maintenance of the labor board as the all powerful agency of government above which there was no appeal. Congress throughout all its debates did not intend that any penalty should attach for the disobedience of a decision of the railroad labor board and purposely omitted the matter of penalties, believing that public opinion would compel obedience. Mr. Harding is relying on course on public opinion but there is a feeling in labor circles that he has stated erroneously the true power of the labor board when he attempts in his proclamation to give to the labor board's decisions the weight of law, and when he gives the impression that in striking against a decision of the board the men are in effect striking against the United States government. The truth is nowhere in the Transportation Act does the labor board have powers of compulsory arbitration. The government however, has full power to reject any workers who do accept the decisions of the board. To this extent any interference with interstate commerce can be prevented and leaders and workmen jailed if they prevent others from taking jobs in conformity with the labor board's awards. The president could have stressed this phase of law-breaking even

Heavy Apple and Potato Crop, Forecast

Chicago.—Immense production of apples and potatoes in the U. S. this season is expected, according to a statement issued here today by the federal bureau of agricultural economists.

Apple yield looked for exceeds by more than 10,000,000 barrels than the crop gathered last year. Potato production indicated is the largest since the bumper crop of 1917.

An approach to a half billion bushels of potatoes is the forecast of the coming crop, the actual estimate total being put at 428,607,000 bushels as against 246,523,000 bushels in 1921. The output of the five leading states in 1922 is calculated as follows: Minnesota, 42,000,000; Idaho, 35,516,000; Wisconsin, 34,558,000; Maine, 25,875,000.

YOUTH DROWNED IN RIVER AT FORT

He sank again and did not come up. His body was found on our later some distance down stream and the pump-out failed to revive him. He had been 21 years old Saturday. The body will be taken to Milwaukee for burial.

Miss Emma Krebs has returned from a trip on the Great Lakes, made in company with friends.

more than he did and kept within the meaning of the federal statutes, but labor leaders, among them Samuel Gompers, insists that Mr. Harding's proclamation contains an untenable doctrine. It is recognized however, that if the railroad strike is settled directly or indirectly without serious challenge to the authority of the labor board an important principle of the influence of the government upon the thousands of people and varied interests whose collective power affects railroad management. The way out for the labor board is to accept the decision of the labor board, with a request for reconsideration. This may or may not be granted by the board. If it is granted it would not commit the board to modification, but would afford labor leaders an opportunity to resume negotiations and end the strike without seeming to have won or lost.

BAKER SPEAKS AT CAMPAIGN OPENING

Candidate for Attorney General at Edgerton Sounds Keynote of Drive.

Edgerton.—John F. Baker, assistant attorney general, opened his campaign as a candidate for attorney general on the independent progressive republican ticket here Thursday night with a keynote address in which he attacked the La Follette candidates and policies in the primary campaign as "radical."

There are two factors in the republican party in Wisconsin," Mr. Baker said, "the progressives and the radicals. The radical ticket was put in the field after a secret conference of four or five people gathered and placed a complete ticket in the field headed by Gov. J. J. Blaine. The people of Wisconsin are not asked to waive their rights to a voice in the original selection of a voice for this state of candidates thus selected by a single individual."

The candidate after explaining that the citizens' republican ticket, met to combat this La Follette ticket, and in his opinion endorsed candidates who would support constructive policies in administering the Wisconsin government if elected to office. "If the program he would follow," the attorney general is a powerful arm of the state government," Mr. Baker declared. "Under the existing law it stands in importance to the public next to the that of the attorney general."

"What I have said of law enforcement generally applies with equal force to all laws. The liquor laws are no exceptions. It will be the policy of the state attorney's office, if I am attorney general, to enforce uniformly and impartially all liquor both state and national."

"One of the causes for disregard for law and dissatisfaction with government grows out of the much talked of delays of the law. It will be the policy of the legal department of Wisconsin, if I am elected to this office, to see that no unreasonable delay is occasioned in the conduct of state cases."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Jefferson.—More than 5,000 persons passed the entrance of the fair grounds, Thursday, to attend the fourth annual Holstein Picnic given by the Jefferson County Holstein-Friesian Breeders' association, with the city of Jefferson cooperating.

Nearly all places of business closed at 10 a. m. when the calf judging contest began. The show calves were selected for the 1922 circuit. The judging was divided into three classes as follows: Boys under 18, girls under 18, and girls over 18. Three prizes were awarded in each group.

Ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, president of the National Holstein-Friesian Breeders' association, delivered an address at 1 p. m. A pure bred bull calf was given away to Miss Anna Wolcott, 19 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolcott of this city. The calf was donated by the Milford Meadows stock farm, Lake Mills. It was sold at an auction subsequently as the calf could not keep it. William Keeling, Whitewater, was the highest bidder, taking the calf for $32.50.

A baseball game between Lake Mills and Hebron at 2:15 p. m. was the feature of the afternoon. Lake Mills won 12 to 2. Games and races for young and old were conducted and free balloons were passed out among the children.

The Arion band of Jefferson furnished music. Coffee, milk and cream were served free.

We believe with Franklin that if you keep your shop it will keep you. Our idea of keeping your shop, is to make it at all times a place where you can spend your money safe in the assurance of value received. Consistency is just about the biggest word in our store dictionary.

The "feast or famine" type of storekeeping—the theory that depends on occasional outbursts of values to keep the store going—has no standing here. We seek and find exceptional advantages every day and at certain seasons hold notable store-wide events. But the point we want to make is that any day and every day every department is in line with sound values.

These republican legislators who refused to stand by the committee were: Borah, Lenroot, Kellogg, Capper, McCormick, Sterling, Cummings, Nelson, Thompson, Jones (Wash.), Norbeck, McNary, Willis, and Wadsworth.

On first roll call Senator New voted with the "rebels" but on the second two he returned to the regulars. Senator Wadsworth joined the "rebels" on the third roll call. Senator Kendrick of Wyoming, a democrat, also joined the "rebels" and the republicans, also joined the insurgents. La Follette and Norris, who have been against the bill from the first, were not present.

During the discussion of the amendment to double the duty on cotton waste Senator Lenroot called attention to the fact that in 1920 the total importations of such waste was just 500 pounds.

"Of course," added Lenroot, "the committee can not justify this bill. It must have been placed in the bill on the ground that we are making increases, so let's increase everything."

DRY ENFORCEMENT SHOWN IN REPORT

$283,636 Collected in Fines for Violation of Arid Laws in Year.

Madison.—The growth of prohibition enforcement in Wisconsin is said by W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner, to be reflected in a comparative report he submitted to Gov. J. J. Blaine Friday showing the increase in fines and number of arrests during 1930 and 1931.

During the first year of his administration as prohibition commissioner fines totaled $283,636, collected from 1,534 convictions. The average was $185.70. The comparison with $27,655 taken in fines on 152 convictions obtained under the administration of Mrs. Smith's predecessor in the office. The average amount of the fine during his administration was $184.74. All fines go into the school fund.

"This report does not include fines collected for drunkenness, drunk and disorderly conduct or for driving an automobile while intoxicated," the report says. "Neither does it include fines collected under city ordinances or by the federal government."

In those counties where the local officers have been active in assisting in apprehending violators and where the courts have been prompt in imposing adequate punishments, the unlawful traffic in intoxicants has been practically suppressed," Mr. Smith declared. "In other counties the traffic is still flourishing in varying degrees."

Permit fees from druggists and doctors totaled $24,000 during the year, the report shows. In addition to these fees, $13,356 was turned into the general fund during 1931 by town, village and city treasurers, to cover the five per cent non-intoxicating liquor license fee due the state. The amount for 1931 should be double that amount, Mr. Smith said.

Better co-operation from local officials is rapidly being obtained and enforcement constantly becoming more effective," he said. "The percentage of convictions has also greatly increased and more severe penalties are being imposed so that now at least $10,000 per day is being collected in fines in state cases alone. Besides the heavy jail sentence imposed."

At the Villa Rose

BY A. E. W. MASON

SYNOPSIS OF VILLA ROSE.

Celle Harland is companion to Mrs. Dauvray of the Villa Rose. She meets Harry Wethermill at the Casino at Aix. Two days later after Ricardo had met Celle, Wethermill returns to the villa. These were the words, and the woman was obviously honest. What became of my theory then? The girl was free to run, free to stop and pick up the train of her gown in her hand, from the street to the open street if she wanted help.

"No; that I could not explain until that afternoon, when I saw Mlle. Celle's terror-stricken eyes fixed upon that flask, as if it were a little out and burst a hole in the sack. Then I understood well enough. The fear of vitriol! Hanaud gave an uneasy shudder. "And it is enough to make any one afraid!" That I can tell you. No wonder she lay still as a mouse upon the sofa in the bedroom. No wonder she ran quickly into the house.

"Well, there you have the explanation. I had only my theory to wait upon even after Mme. Gobin's evidence. But as it happened it was the right one.

Meanwhile, of course, I made my inquiries into Wethermill's circumstances. He had good friends in England. He owed money in Aix, money at his hotel. We knew from the motor car that the man was searching for had reason to believe that he was looking for Wethermill. Then you gave me a little piece of information.

"I!" exclaimed Ricardo with a start. (To be continued.)

Dinner Stories

The professor had retired to his library after dinner. Presently the two youngest children came rushing into the room.

"Now children, don't disturb me."

"What is it you want?" asked the professor.

"We just wanted to say goodnight," said the children.

"Well, suppose you wait till tomorrow for that."

"Why do the big city restaurants have their bill-of-fares printed in French?" asked old Riley Residew.

"Because they couldn't get their warmed-over vittals out if they didn't," responded Bart Bugg who had been to the Big Burg often enough to think he knew.

A westerner went to spend vacation at Lobolly Cove, near Rockport. He had never seen the ocean before. The first morning of his arrival he appeared at the little fish house and general store kept by a native named Haslins, and announced that he wanted two pails full of sea water, which the storekeeper obligingly dipped up for him from his wharf, it being high tide.

"How much?" the westerner asked.

"Fiskins, who never overlooked a bargain, replied:

"Ten cents."

The new arrival paid it cheerfully, and that afternoon he turned up again with his pails.

"My doctor out home told me to bathe in sea water twice a day," he explained; then, observing the distant beach line at low tide, he added: "Gosh! You've had a big business today, haven't you, mister?"

SWEDEN AIDS UNEMPLOYED.

Stockholm—Sweden's total appropriation for unemployment during 1922 will reach $5,000,000 kronor, or about $22,000,000. Government aid will be limited to those who, through no fault of their own, are without work. Persons unwilling to work will not be helped.

Ladies, have you seen the Price Set of Pyrex?—At T. P. Burns Co.—Advertisement.

"So I tell Vauquier she can go away, and I leave her unwatched. I have her driven to the depot instead of to her friends, and searched. Upon her is found the pot of cream, and in the cream Mlle. Celle's earrings. She has slipped into Mlle. Celle's room as if my theory was correct, she would be sure to do, and put the pot of cream into her pocket. I am now sure that she is concerned in the murder."

"We then went to Mme. Dauvray's room and discovered her brilliant and her ornaments. Among the meaning of that agitated pose of handwriting of Mlle. Celle's becomes clear. She is asked where the jewels are hidden. She cannot answer, for her mouth, of course, is stopped. She has to write. Thus my conjectures get more and more support."

"And, mind this, one of the two women is guilty—Celle or Vauquier. My discoveries all fit in with the theory of Celle's innocence. But there comes the final clue, for which I found no explanation."

"You will remember I made you all promise silence as to the finding of Mme. Dauvray's jewelry. For I thought, if they have taken the girl away so that the suspicion may fall on her and not on Vauquier, they mean to dispose of her. But they may keep her so long as they have a chance of finding out from Mrs. Dauvray's hiding place. It was small chance, but our only one. The moment the discovery of the jewelry was published the girl's fate was sealed, were my theory true."

"Then came our advertisement and Mrs. Gobin's written testimony. Which was one small point of interest. I will make due of her statement that Adele was the Christian name of the woman with the red hair, that the old woman who was the servant in that house in the suburb of Geneva called her Adele, just, since Adele had called her Adele too when she was describing to us the unknown visitor. Adele was what Mme. Dauvray called her."

"Yes," said Ricardo. "Helene Vauquier made a slip. She should have given her a false name."

Hanaud nodded. "It is the one slip she made in the whole of the business. Nor did she recover herself very cleverly. For when the Commission pointed upon the name she at once modified her words. She only thought now that the name was Adele, or something like it. But when I went on to suggest that the name in any case would be a false one, at once she went back upon her modification."

"And now she was sure that Adele was the name used. I remembered her hesitation when I read the Gobin letter. They heeded to confirm me in my theory that she was in the plot; and they made me very sure that it was an Adele for whom we had to look. So far, so well.

But other statements in the letter puzzled me. For instance, "She ran lightly and quickly across the pavement into the house, as though she were afraid of the sun." These were the words, and the woman was obviously honest. What became of my theory then? The girl was free to run, free to stop and pick up the train of her gown in her hand, from the street to the open street if she wanted help.

"No; that I could not explain until that afternoon, when I saw Mlle. Celle's terror-stricken eyes fixed upon that flask, as if it were a little out and burst a hole in the sack. Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman 36 years old. I have two girls of school age—one in high school and one in the seventh grade. They are 12 and 24 years old. I have been married now for 12 years. They fairly make me crazy with the noise they make. I should not think they would be so noisy at that age. They act nervous and at times there is no living with them. Then they are impudent to me and are awfully mean. Then in a little while they are all right.

My mother stays here and they sleep up for her and are sure to me. They think I ought not to say anything to her. At times I certainly have the right to tell her things because she is getting childish at 82. She is mean to me too then.

Do you think I ought to stand for this? My husband thinks I ought to overlook things, but at times I think she is causing unhappiness in the family and that the children are that way on account of her. It hurts me to have them act so. Even when I don't say anything they get awfully noisy and unruly.

One daughter learns music and she doesn't seem to have much interest in it lately.

Am I at fault or my mother? What do you think I should do?

SICK AT HEART.

To be very frank I think you are at fault because you are nervous and over tired. Children are usually very just and since they take part with you mother when they are with you, you may be sure you are not in the right. A great deal that she does should be forgiven because of her old age. I realize of course that it is very hard for you to put up with such a creature as your mother and you are nervous as a result. You must find a way, however, and if a vacation is possible, by all means take one.

Your daughters are old enough to take charge of the home while you are away. They could care for their grandmother and keep house. You

Beef Birds—Have a round steak cut quite thin. Cut in pieces about six inches square and place on each a stuffing of bread crumbs seasoned with celery, onions or any preferred flavor. Fold meat over and fasten in place with small skewers or tooth picks. Brown in a tablespoon of hot fat in skillet and place in casserole. Add one tablespoon of flour to fat and when well blended add one cup water, or stock if one teaspoon salt and pour over meat. Cook in oven slowly till meat is tender (about one hour), adding a little more water or stock if you have it. Stir till smooth, and then serve.

Roast Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb With Browned Potatoes—Three and a half or four pounds shoulder. Dressing—Two cups stale bread crumbs, one tablespoon finely chopped onion, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, one teaspoon salt, one eighth teaspoon pepper. Wipe lamb with damp cloth; fill pocket with dressing and sew up; put in hot oven for twenty minutes. When well browned, remove to platter; add water to pan to make two cups of gravy. Thicken gravy with one tablespoon of flour which has been mixed with a little cold water. Stir until smooth in hot gravy, cook two minutes, season to taste.

French Hells—Mix two tablespoons of lard, one cup of yeast (or one cake of compressed yeast), one-third cup of sugar, two quarts of flour, one egg. Let rise as bread dough. Don't make too stiff. Make into rolls, then bake in moderate oven.

Spinach Salad—Boil spinach in a small amount of salted water, drain and chop fine. A dressing of oil and vinegar is preferable, though a mayonnaise may be used. Garnish with one or two small red radishes and a green onion or two, all cut in thin slices and lightly salted.

FIRST AID.

For Strangling Child—If child struggles when drinking, raise the left arm high over head; it will stop instantly and will not frighten child as slapping on the back will do.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Norman F. Coleman is President of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen of Portland, Oregon, and, having a fondness for knotty material, he reads the "Listen, World!" One day he wrote to his editor and said: "I have read these comments upon present day American life. I hope the writer will follow them up with some suggestion as to the modern equivalent for carpet weaving and bear skinning. So here I come, 'following up.'"

What do I think is the modern equivalent for the carpet weaving and bear skinning that once made our women Great Partners for their men? The typewriter, the filing case, the restaurant counter, the advertising room—the thousand departments of modern commerce in which women are working—that's what I think is the modern equivalent for the bear skinning that once saved women's souls.

The pilgrim mothers weren't great because they shot Indians, but because they met life as it came, with courage, energy and ingenuity. They went out in the thick of things and they bore themselves valiantly. It's exactly that spirit which will make our women great today, if we encourage it.

The Modern Girl is getting her human contact, her broadening and balancing in identically the same place as the pioneer mother got hers—on the frontier. For the Pioneer Mother that meant the deserts and plains; for the Modern Daughter it means Commerce Street. But the daring and resourcefulness required are the same, and the point it gives is the same. If you want a scintillating woman for a wife, pal, choose one who has skinned her bears—choose a working girl. She may seem more calloused and cold than the sheltered little stay-at-home. The Pioneer Wife was more calloused and cold than the court beauty. But she has humor and honor and grit. You can tie to her.

Stop resenting the Working Girl. Brothers. Stop sneering at her. Stop treating her like a Partner in the office and a Pekinese in the evening. Begin to reverence and praise her for her energy and efficiency and she'll save the world for you.

National Golf Play Starts-Plan Closed Fish Season

79 LINK STARS COMMENCE FIGHT IN SEMI-FINALS

Glencoe, Ill.—Seventy-nine golfers, survivors of a field of 225 which numbered the champions and most of the greater players of every golfing nation in the world, today started the 72 hole fight for the American national open golf championship, shooting over the Skokie course with perfect playing conditions.

Friday night these stars will have reached the half way point, 36 holes, and Saturday will come to the final half of the contest with the player turning in the lowest score for the two days officially adjudged the American open champion. Pairings for Friday's play gives an excellent idea of the comprehensiveness of the field.

Evans Vs. Duncan

Thursday's Stars

Bob MacDonald Thursday gave a wonderful display of driving and led with 143. Willie Hunter led the amateurs with a brilliant 146 match, one shot on his second 18 holes. A great part of the huge gallery followed him about the course. Harrison Johnston, St. Paul and Dewey Weber, Edgewood, Ill., tied for second amateur honors with 148 each.

JOE CANTILLON is a golfer. The Janesville leader of the Minneapolis Millers, who is sometimes called the Earl of the Crimson Waistcoat, is a keen devotee of the game. But that is beside the point. The news is that Joe did a little of the pitching in the first of a double header at Milwaukee Thursday afternoon. Pongo isn't so old yet, but what he can chuck a mean pill.

PERHAPS the finest piece of dope coming from the great national golf meet at Skokie concerns the caddies. There are at least 25 of these youths who have come from all parts of the country to watch their heroes. How most of them made the trip, they won't tell. It must be some game when the kids will leave home and mother to attend a meet.

READ the report on this page of the fish and game conservation meeting at Madison. Then sit down and do a little thinking. If you don't like what is planned, voice your objections through the columns of the Gazette sports page. Similarly, if you like the dope, send in your comment.

"IRON MAN" Joe McGinnis is no longer manager of the Danville club in the Three-Eyes league. The Fans' association gave him the rate and put Catcher Gillenwater in to run the outfit. Here it is only the first year in minor league ball and the team is not up on top. They don't want a manager in Danville. They want a miracle man.

Boniface won Frontier handicap feature event at opening of Windsor (Ont.) Jockey club season.

Peter Coolidge won Matinee 2:00 trot feature event on Grand Circuit card at Toledo.

Suzanne refused to talk about her win over Mollie.

Spain won first match of Spanish-Indian preliminaries for Davis tennis cup.

Rudolph Knepper, Sioux City, and Alex Graham, Kansas champion, meet Friday in finals of trans-Mississippi golf meet.

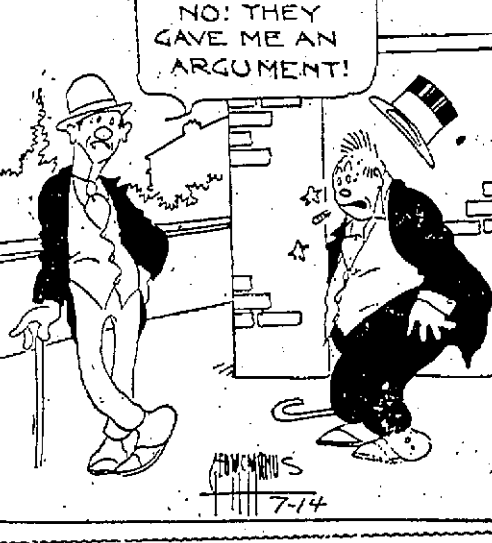

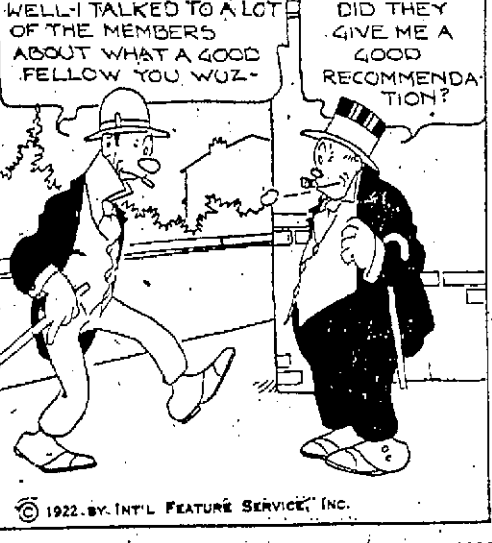

Diamond Spangles.—White Sox were stopped by a torrent of rain just when it looked as if they would force a share of the lead. Besides dropping 12 inning battle to the Cubs when Casper, erstwhile Janesvilleite, weakened, Giants again lost services of Third Baseman Gab Hartnett who had kept him out for a month until Thursday. Pitching his second one hit game of the season, Donk captured a 1-0 duel for the Cards from Singleton of the Phillies. Cards now within three and a half games of leading Giants.

After losing seven straight games in the west, Brooklyn finally emerged from its slump to beat Cincinnati. Holman's two homers and another by Veach couldn't stop the Yeggers from losing third in four games to Philadelphia. Holman now has 16 circuit clouts. Brewers smash Minneapolis for both ends of a double header—Outplaying Peoria, Rockford copped.

Fight Talk.—Following a heated discussion, Tex Rickard granted permit for Leonard-Tenderloin to fight in Jersey city July 27 over protests of anti-boxing fight club association. Joe Burman and Mike Dundee meet at Aurora Friday. Aurora bout may be stopped by sheriff on acting Governor Sterling's orders.

Urge Resident Fishing Licenses for Wisconsin

Closing the season on all game fish until June 15 will be asked of the legislature at the fall session following a meeting of game wardens and delegates of sportsmen clubs at Madison, according to Charles L. Snyder, deputy game warden, Janesville, who returned from the conference Thursday.

If the legislature adopts the recommendation, which will be followed through by the conservation commission, anglers will be unable to take any of the following fish from the waters until June 15: pike, pickerel, muskellunge, catfish, bullhead, perch, bass of every variety, and trout.

Under the present laws the following may be caught on and after June 1: perch, bullhead, catfish, muskies, pickerel, pike, rock and white bass.

Purpose of the new plan is to permit the black bass to have plenty of time in which to spawn. Sportsmen claim that to have the season open on some fish at June 1, disturbs the bass spawn.

Another recommendation that will have a wide effect is the plan to limit the size of "pan" fish—blue gill, sunfish, perch—to catches of not under 7 inches long.

"Most pan fish caught average about 6 inches," says Mr. Snyder, "arguing against such a course." "A pan fish of seven inches is a rare catch. Where the great harm will come will be in practically stopping the fishing of children."

When a boy goes fishing, he puts his line in at the end of a dock or some other place near shore. When he gets a sunfish or other pan fish, he takes it home and shows it to his folks. He wants to eat it. But he will never get a 7 inch fish—more generally it will be five inches—and so you will stop the fun of all the kids. They don't take enough fish out of the streams to do any harm."

One of the proposed changes in fish laws is the suggestion to inaugurate resident fishing licenses for Wisconsin at $1 a head. Revenue amounting to $300,000 would thus be derived to be used in the work of the conservation commission, particularly in restocking lakes and streams.

Other plans outlined are to hold a meeting of commissioners of Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin to devise uniform fishing laws.

To make it possible to place a conservation warden in every county of the state, it was also urged that the legislature set aside and establish a special fund of $10,000. The present law provides sufficient funds for more than wardens for several counties combined.

A resolution that will hit some fishermen in this vicinity, was one asking that no fishing be allowed from a motorboat while the engine is running. This would put a stop to trolling from motors.

A reduction of the bag limit on ducks from 25 to 15 is also asked.

Services of George Smith, farmer living on the Beloit road, are to be enlisted in the Rock county horseshoe pitching tournament to be held here in conjunction with the Janesville fair. Ralph Soultan and Joe (Ringer) Denning, local enthusiasts, went to see him Friday.

Mr. Smith has taken part in many meets. He put on an exhibition here at the city tournament on July 4, making nine straight ringers in nine tries.

Barnyard golfers of the county interested in the meet are asked to get in touch with Mr. Soultan by writing him at 602 Third street or phoning 3829.
